
Ramberto A. Torruella Jr.

Department of the Navy Special Access Programs Chief Information Officer/Director, Information Systems and Technology Navy Engineering Logistics Organization

Mr. Torruella enlisted in the Navy in 1986, and graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1992 with a Bachelor of Science Degree in Physics. He qualified as a nuclear engineer aboard the submarine USS Olympia (SSN 717) in 1996, and served as the Main Propulsion Assistant, Sonar Officer and Communicator. Ashore, Mr. Torruella served as an instructor and course administrator for Strike Warfare and Coordinated Operations at the Naval Submarine School in Groton, Conn in 1997. He left active service in 1999 and served as a contract software engineer developing data mining solutions for NAVSEA 04M1, and as a reservist in the Navy Command Center in Washington, DC. Mr. Torruella returned to active service in 2001 as the Assistant Engineer for USS Albuquerque (SSN 706), and as the Combat Systems Officer aboard the USS Santa Fe (SSN 763). He then served as the Deputy Assistant Chief of Staff for Plans, Exercises and Liaison for Submarine Group Seven in Yokosuka, Japan in 2004.

In 2005, Mr. Torruella transitioned to the Information Professional community and served afloat as the Deputy Assistant Chief of Staff for C4I (N60) for Carrier Strike Group Five, embarked aboard USS Kitty Hawk (CV 63), and as the Assistant Chief of Staff for C5I (N6) for Expeditionary Strike Group Three, embarked aboard USS Peleliu (LHA 5), USS Bon Homme Richard (LHD 6), USS Boxer (LHD 4), and USS Makin Island (LHD 8). He served ashore on the Joint Staff as a Branch Chief and Executive Assistant to the Deputy Director for Studies and Analysis from 2011-2014. He also served as the Deputy Chief Information Officer (J65) for the United States European Command from 2014-2015, as their C4-Cyberspace Operations Chief (J63) from 2015-2016, and as the Director of Communications and Network Operations and Chief Information Officer for Naval Forces Europe, Naval Forces Africa; and as the N6 for Sixth Fleet from 2016-2019. Before becoming a Senior Leader in February of 2021, he served as an Assistant Professor of National Security Strategy and the Cyberspace Industry Study Lead Professor at the Eisenhower School of National Resource Strategy at the National Defense University in Washington, DC.

Ramberto Torruella is a 2009 graduate of the Eisenhower School where he earned the Commandant's Award for original research titled "China's Energy Insecurity: Sailing Towards Cooperation or Conflict." He also holds a Master's Degree in Computer Science from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute of Technology, and is certified as a Certified Ethical Hacker (CEH), Certified Information Systems Security Professional (CISSP), Chief Information Security Officer (CISO), Chief Information Officer (CIO), and several other technical and cyber security certifications. He has lectured in cyberspace topics including operations, security, and industry trends around the world, and has been published in Joint Forces Quarterly, Naval Institute Proceedings, and the Navy CHiPs Magazine.